Eilat is a clinically led residential service in Bournemouth, specialising in supporting adults with acquired brain injuries and degenerative neurological conditions. Supporting up to seven individuals, the service offers a structured and supportive environment where people can focus on neuro-rehabilitation, and long-term independence, while remaining connected to their local community.

The service provides expert, goal-focused rehabilitation through a person-centred approach, involving individuals at every stage of their journey.

Support is delivered through tailored programmes designed to help people relearn skills, build confidence and prepare for greater independence, including opportunities for community integration and transition into supported living where appropriate. With input from specialist professionals and multidisciplinary teams, individuals are supported to achieve meaningful, long-term outcomes.

Eilat offers comfortable, adapted accommodation including en-suite bedrooms, communal living and dining areas with a spacious garden used for both relaxation and rehabilitation activities.

With access to local amenities, strong transport links and opportunities for everyday skill development, the service provides a supportive pathway for individuals to regain independence and enjoy a fulfilling, active lifestyle.
