Woodlands is a specialist residential service supporting adults with autism and mental Health needs. Located close to local amenities, transport links and community facilities, the service provides a warm and supportive environment where individuals can build confidence, develop practical skills and work towards living more independently.

Support at Woodlands is guided by a person-centred, outcomes-focused approach that places each individual at the heart of decision-making.

Using recovery-based models and working closely with mental health professionals and other specialists, the team supports people to develop daily living skills, strengthen community engagement and achieve personal goals.

Regular reviews, tailored plans and positive risk management help individuals make meaningful progress whilst maintaining choice and control over their lives.

The service offers six en-suite bedrooms within a comfortable and homely setting. Shared lounges, a spacious kitchen and communal facilities encourage social connection, independence and skill development.

Combined with strong community links and personalised support, Woodlands provides a safe and encouraging environment where people can increase their confidence and take positive steps towards a more independent future.
