Friern Barnet, North London

Fairford Court is a specialist residential service in Friern Barnet, North London, supporting up to eight adults with mental health needs and autism. The service provides a safe and welcoming environment where individuals are supported to build skills, gain confidence and take meaningful steps towards living more independent lives.

At Fairford Court, support is highly personalised and shaped around each individual's goals, strengths and aspirations. The team works closely with families, professionals and advocates to deliver person-centred care that promotes independence and prepares individuals for supported living. A strong focus is placed on developing everyday life skills, managing mental wellbeing and building confidence, with tailored approaches such as Autism Profiles ensuring support reflects each person's unique needs.

The service offers a combination of residential bedrooms and supported living flats, creating a clear pathway towards greater independence. With access to local amenities, green spaces and strong transport links, alongside a wide range of in-house and community-based activities, Fairford Court supports individuals to stay active, build social connections and achieve positive, long-term outcomes.
