Bridgend, South Wales

Parc Lodge is a specialist residential service in Bridgend, South Wales supporting up to 10 adults with a range of mental health needs. The service also supports individuals with secondary diagnoses such as learning disabilities, autism and physical health needs, alongside those with forensic histories, with a clear focus on rehabilitation and progression towards more independent living.

At Parc Lodge, support is delivered through a person-centred approach, tailored to each individual's needs, strengths and aspirations. The team works closely with a wide network of health and social care professionals, including mental health teams, GPs and community services, to ensure holistic and joined-up care. Individuals are supported to engage with services, attend appointments and develop the skills needed to manage their wellbeing, build confidence and move forward positively.

The home is a spacious property offering 10 en-suite bedrooms alongside modern communal living areas that create a comfortable and welcoming environment. Located close to Bridgend town centre, with excellent transport links and access to local amenities, Parc Lodge enables individuals to engage with their community, access meaningful opportunities and continue their journey towards greater independence.
